

Comedy & Tragedy

Climate Crisis Storytelling in a Pandemic

Affect + Climate

Tragedy

Embodying Grief, Gratitude, and Volunteering

- Gratitude & Concern
discussion boards
- Model transparency
- Emotion-centric analysis
- Embodiment--lived experience,
walking, volunteering

Volunteering...

I chose to paint a mural for my church. Due to Covid, our services were quickly moved outdoors to adjust to social distancing standards. I felt as if the outdoor space looked very rushed and bland, so I began to brainstorm ways to bring a little

Comedy

Irony, Satire, & Nature Walks

Nature Walk

Believe it or not, Chinese people who are around my age usually don't like to go for a walk at parks, they think only old guys would go to parks. But I am the special one.

I, unfortunately, could not see stars, all the lights in the sky were airplanes.

It's good that plants don't get Covid. And I hope that crow won't either.

Although I usually love walking outside I have several mosquito bites on me, which I'm severely allergic to.

Apologies for the late submission, I had food poisoning yesterday from a bad decision McDonald's run.

You just can't out-gloom an environmentalist.

-Conservative Journalist, Jonah Goldberg

Joy has nothing to do with ease. It has everything to do with the fact that we're all going to die.

-Poet, Ross Gay